The user acknowledges and accepts all inherent limitations of the maps and data, including the fact that the maps and data are dynamic and in a constant state of maintenance, correction and revision. The PCEC provides no warranties, expressed or implied, concerning the accuracy, completeness or reliability of this data for any other particular use. Furthermore, the PCEC and its member agencies assume no liability whatsoever associated with the use or misuse of such data. The data may have an inherent number of errors which may include but are not limited to the following types of errors:

- a) Omission errors - GIS data layers, databases and documents may not be the most current available or may not depict the specified time. All data is subject to constant change. Data input lags real-world changes by varying periods of time.
- b) Attribution errors - GIS data layers, databases and documents may not be necessarily accurate to surveying or engineering standards. XY coordinates may be in error by several feet or more.
- c) Ambiguity errors - Database information may be incorrect.
- d) Resolution errors - GIS data layers may not be sufficiently detailed to accurately represent the real world.
- e) Projection errors - All map projections introduce distortion by representing the irregular shape of the earth's surface on flat maps. This affects feature shapes and map distances.
